PRINCE HENRY IS GIVING ROUSING WELCOME BY AMERICAN PEOPLE

PRINCE HENRY NOW VISITING THE UNITED STATES.

New York, Feb. 23.—The Kronprinz Wilhelm, with Prince Henry of Prussia on board, will arrive off Sandy Hook at 10 o'clock this (Sunday) morning. The steamer was sighted at 1 o'clock this morning off Nantucket lightship.

The Herald received the following wireless message from Prince Henry:

"On board Kronprinz Wilhelm, 11 off Nantucket.
"Compliments to Theodore Roosevelt, and hope this finds him well. Sorry to have been delayed, but head winds and heavy seas prevented even this fine ship reaching port on schedule time.
"PRINCE HENRY OF PRUSSIA."

Just before nightfall Admiral Evans' ship, the Illinois, Olympia, Cincinnati and San Francisco, which had been lying at anchor off Tompkinsville all day, awaiting the arrival of Prince Henry, were enveloped in a snow squall that obscured their view of the lower bay, which they had been watching since daybreak.

At that hour the storm, which had been raging all day, increased in fury. The wind blew at the rate of fifty miles an hour, and at 3 o'clock a snowstorm started in which increased in violence every minute.

As darkness came on the holiday decorations which had been flying all day from the masthead of the warships were hauled down and a little later nothing could be seen of the fleet but the twinkling lights that came from the portholes. The day has been one of gloom in the vicinity of the man-of-war anchorage, notwithstanding the hunting flapping gayly in the wind. Hardly a single vessel had passed the squadron during the day, owing to the tempestuous weather.

When that ceremony was over the Kronprinz was stopped and the Nina hauled around to her port side and Admiral Evans and his staff boarded her. The passengers were gathered on the main deck and there was a hearty cheer as the Admiral came up the gangway.

Prince's First Greeting.
Admiral Evans was escorted forward at once, and in the quarters of Captain A. Richter, master of the Kronprinz, he and the Prince met. The Prince came forward, and taking the hand of the naval officer shook it warmly.

"I am very glad to see you, sir," said the Admiral. "Everybody in the United States is waiting to welcome you. It is my pleasure, sir, to formally greet you in their behalf."
"I thank you, sir, and through you, the people of your country," replied the Prince. "I am very glad to be here, and on this splendid day. The Emperor directed me to convey his compliments to you, Admiral, and I do so with very great pleasure."

Admiral Evans expressed gratification at the thoughtfulness of the Emperor. He presented the members of his staff, and the Prince gave each a hearty handshake and a cordial word. The newspaper correspondents who are to accompany the Prince in his tour through the country were also introduced by the Admiral. The Prince, who was in excellent spirits, smiled when he faced the newspaper writers, and after the formal part of the presentation said he was "quite sure that their relations would be very happy."

The first of the large crowds was met at the Battery, and from there on up to Recreation Pier, where the largest crowd of all had gathered, every pier to which admission was not denied was partly filled. The number of river craft also increased and the welcome was a noisy one.

Reception on Hohenzollern.
Prince Henry disembarked at 12:55 p. m., at that moment walking down the decorated gangway from the Kronprinz Wilhelm into the elaborately decorated pier. He then passed through an ornamental gateway and arch to the gangplank of the Hohenzollern, which had been decorated in the German colors and was covered half its length. The Prince was met at the bottom of the gangplank by Admiral von Baudissin, commander of the Hohenzollern, and his officers. Meanwhile the band from the Kronprinz Wilhelm was playing the German national air. Taking the precedence due to his rank, Prince Henry walked up the plank, followed by the officers of the Hohenzollern.

Prince Henry gave a dinner tonight on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern. The guests included a number of American officials, besides a few prominent New York men.

A Clubhouse Reception.
Later Prince Henry attended a reception given in his honor by the Deutscher Verein, at the clubhouse of the organization. He was escorted through the streets from the dock where the Hohenzollern lies to the clubhouse by Squadron A of the National Guard, and attended by his suit, Rear Admiral von Baudissin and his officers and other guests. All the party were in carriages, while at the head of the line rode a detachment of mounted police. In the Prince's carriage rode Rear Admiral Evans and Assistant Secretary of State Hill.

At the special request of Prince Henry, the club members and their families were presented to him. He stood in one of the rooms with the German Ambassador on his right and President Reppel on his left. As the men were presented the Prince bowed and shook hands with each of the women.
